

INDIANS SOUGHT

RIGHT TO SUE FOR

$25,000 CLAIM

Remnants of Once Powerful Shawnee Tribe Make Trip to Washington.

PRESIDENT DENIED AUDIENCE

CONGRESS WILL CONSIDER BILL GRANTING THEM RIGHT TO GO TO LAW.

Land They Say They Should Be Paid for Lies in Four Counties of Texas and Was Conveyed to Them by Sam Houston.

The remnants of the once powerful Shawnee Indian nation has asked the United States government for permission to sue in the Federal Court of Claims for possession of or remuneration for 500,000 acres of Texas land, lying in four counties and including the city of Tyler.

The value of the claimed property is now over $25,000,000. Thomas Alford, half-breed, Thomas Rock and Thomas Washington, full-blooded Shawnees, were at Union Station Friday morning, en route home from Washington where they had been before the government of the United States.

The Indians laid their case before Secretary Hitchcock and Indian Commissioner Jones and succeeded in having a bill granting them permission to sue, introduced into Congress.

The land is portions of the counties of Smith, Haskell, Garfield and Grant, Oklahoma. On the north is the Sabine river and on the south is what is known as the Old San Antonio road.

This strip is a land of war, romance and history. Its history is inseparable from that of Texas.

Before Sam Houston stirred the whites to rebellion against Mexico, the Shawnees held undisputed sway over this vast tract. Occasionally the war path would lead to the village of the Shawnees, and the Shawnees would be up into this fertile country, but always after an easy trip to the Shawnee village.

Houston needed this war-loving people in the impending struggle with Mexico. His messengers to them were either stoned out of the village or never returned. The Shawnee revolutionaries were in serious straits. He could not make war on the parent government, with the Shawnees arrayed against him, nor could he learn whether they would join him.

Girl Captured by the Indians. It happened on one day the young daughter of one of Houston's chief supporters was captured by the Indians. All efforts to rescue her were unavailing, and she was given up as lost. Great was the joy of her kinsmen when she suddenly appeared alive and well and unmistakably happy.

She had married a young buck who was familiarly known to her as "the white man." He was given up as lost, and she was given up as lost. Great was the joy of her kinsmen when she suddenly appeared alive and well and unmistakably happy.

Armed with the records of the Texas republic congress, a copy of the Houston deed of conveyance and a high degree of fidelity of nation to the United States government Messrs. Alford, Rock and Washington went to Washington.

Fought Against Mexico for the United States. Rock and Washington fought for Texas and the United States against Mexico. Washington served with a Kansas regiment during the civil war.

Alford, a half-breed, is a man of intelligence and education, and is practically in charge of the case.

BUILDINGS NOT ALWAYS INSPECTED

Commissioner Longfellow Says St. Louis Has No Law Compelling It.

INQUEST ON FIREMEN BEGINS

DEPUTY COMMISSIONER SAYS HE DOES NOT KNOW WHETHER BUILDING WAS INSPECTED.

C. W. Martin Testified That the Structure Had Been Damaged by Fire to the Extent of $19,000 in 1899.

Deputy Coroner John T. Fitzsimmons at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning opened the inquest into the deaths of the seven members of the St. Louis fire department, who met death Tuesday night at the fire at 314 Chestnut street.

Coroner Funkhouser was unable to conduct the inquest in person, being confined to his home, 324 Olive street, with an injury to his knee sustained by a fall on a slippery sidewalk Thursday night.

Mayor Wells was invited to attend and visited the coroner's office promptly at 10 o'clock, the hour set for the inquest. Mr. Fitzsimmons told him he was not yet ready to begin the inquest and the mayor returned to his office, saying he would come back when notified to do so. He returned while the first witness was testifying.

The following jury of business men was sworn in: St. Louis, 725 Lucas avenue; Hugh McKittick, secretary Hargadine-McKittick Dry Goods Co.; Isaac Friedman, Friedman Bros., 901 Washington avenue; Benjamin Strauss, milliner, 801 Washington avenue; White, Branch & McCook, 1111 N. 2d St.; C. W. Martin, 1009 Washington avenue.

MARTIN FIRST WITNESS. Charles W. Martin of 241 Dayton street was the first witness. Mr. Martin said he was the proprietor of the American Tent and Awning Co. That company occupied all of the building numbered 314 Chestnut street, the top floor of the building numbered 312 Chestnut street. There were two buildings where the fire occurred. The collapsing of the walls of these two buildings caused the death of the seven firemen.

Mr. Martin explained that the building was stocked with awnings and awning frames. He said there were probably 800 awnings in the lot. Many were stored for the winter.

In response to a question whether there ever had been a fire before in the buildings, Mr. Martin said there had been a fire in May, 1899. He said the buildings were seriously damaged by this fire, and that his loss was $19,000.

Dr. Bruner, architect and architect, the witness said, employed a contractor named Wharton. He said he had an additional row of girders put in the building numbered 314 Chestnut street, and that the direct question whether he thought the building was safe to stand, he answered, "I think it was better able to do so."

WAS 75 YEARS OLD. Witness said the rear portion of the building was 75 years old. He said the McLean family had built a new portion in front of the old structure.

Night Watchman Daniel Dunbar testified that he discovered the fire. He said the fire started in the rear portion of the building, and that the fire spread to the front portion.

Charles O. A. Brink, deputy building commissioner, who resides at 240 East Second street, testified that he had been called to the scene of the fire. He said the fire started in the rear portion of the building, and that the fire spread to the front portion.

He said the fire started in the rear portion of the building, and that the fire spread to the front portion. He said the fire started in the rear portion of the building, and that the fire spread to the front portion.

RYAN CHALLENGED RIVAL TO A DUEL

WANTED THOMAS FAULKENBURY TO FIGHT WITH REVOLVERS.

FAULKENBURY TOLD A JUSTICE

An Old Law Against Challenges Was Hunted Up and Ryan Paid a Court Fine.

Miles Ryan of East St. Louis pleaded guilty in the Circuit Court at Belleville Friday morning to the charge of sending a challenge to fight a duel, and was fined $25.

Miles sent the challenge to Thomas Faulkenbury of East Carondelet. The two men were paying attention to the same young lady in East Carondelet and became bitter enemies.

He had gone down to see the young lady and there was a battle. Faulkenbury considered this the best of the argument. Ryan considered this the best of the argument.

He did not even admit to the challenge. He said he was not a duelist. He said he was not a duelist.

He said he was not a duelist. He said he was not a duelist. He said he was not a duelist.

THE SELF-MADE MAN.

So Jones is a self-made man. Is he? O, yes, entirely self-made. And you bet he worships his maker.

Did you ever notice in the old Syrian inscriptions with what bold egotism the kings of that age filled everything that was written? There is one of them in the St. Louis Mercantile Library. It is typical of all such archaeological relics. They read something like this:

Bel-el-Zeeb, which is myself, was the fifth king of Zeeb, which is in Babylon.

Which is in the chosen land of Bel. He reigned 27 years. He was the most illustrious, bravest, most victorious, most generous, most satisfactory, the loveliest, gentlest, strongest, most beloved, most feared—in fact, the greatest King Zeeb ever had.

He could hug his friends and hammer his enemies. He had a great head. It was common thing for him to run out, alone and out of armor, and kick a thousand Elamites off the earth before breakfast.

This glorious record led off a great many notable achievements.

Which cannot be pulled here while the stone-cutters' union insists upon an eight-hour day.

It was accounted the chiefest achievement of his reign.

The next Sunday Post-Dispatch is going to print what is accredited with being the world's oldest inscription. It is a lease of flocks and lands drawn up in Babylon, 5000 years before Christ, according to Dr. Hugo Radau, the Assyriologist and author of a standard work upon early Babylon.

Dr. Radau tells this story and illustrates it, and it is a page of exceptional interest.

"Hunger, Hunnity, is about it" same thing as a republic is a dictatorship. They're not much choice in unhappiness between a hungry slave and a hungry free-man. Cuba couldn't cook or wear freedom. You can't cook freedom into a stew, and you can't cut a free man into it. It won't bide, fry, bake or fricassee. So Cuba comes to us, and says she: 'Ye give us freedom, and now we'd like to have a little of it back for a few groceries,' she says. 'Mr. Dooley on the Cuban question in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.'

A very great man said: "This one thing I do." That stood for several hundred years, but it went over like a tepid when that remarkable individual, the Missouriian, came along and exclaimed: "Show me something I can do."

A St. Louisian who knows 19 languages tells how he learned them, and writes a sentiment in each in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. A St. Louisian naturalist who has been catching snakes in the Alhambra of Roadkill, last of the Moorish kings, shooting lizards in the ruins of old Pompeii and Memphis and under the Pyramids, and catching turtles in the Nile up where the Pharaohs did the quarrying for the great obelisks, tells his story, with pictures in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. Another St. Louisian who has been coasting upon the highest mountain in Europe tells his story, with pictures of the sport, in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. Another St. Louisian who has bought and lives in a Florentine villa built in the year 1253, is the subject of a story and photographs in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. Doesn't that look like a man from Missouri can do anything he attempts? Some Missouriian will win the big flying machine prize at the World's Fair. Mark the prediction. We don't know who he is, but the hills of Missouri will bring him forth. He will be some ingenious Darius, who.

WITNESSES FRIDAY.

John G. Brinkmeyer, ex-member Council, William Ritter, ex-member House of Delegates.

Charles Thuner, ex-councilman. W. H. Judy, ex-clerk House of Delegates. Louis Diekmann, ex-member House of Delegates.

Hiram Lloyd, ex-member House of Delegates. Fred G. Uthoff, ex-member Council. Philip E. Hogan, clerk in Board of Public Improvements.

Deputy sheriffs were dispatched at 10 o'clock Friday morning with subpoenas for eight new witnesses who will be asked to tell the February grand jury what they know concerning the municipal corruption cases that the jury now has under consideration.

In addition to these eight witnesses there are half a dozen witnesses who have been in attendance for several days waiting to be called.

The sessions on these bribery and corruption affairs are so short that the work is necessarily slow. The hour for convening the grand jury on these cases for special investigation is 2:30 o'clock each afternoon. It takes half an hour for organization.

This leaves practically two hours for investigation, for when the use of artificial light is required, the jurors, who have already done a usual day's work before taking up the more important cases, are weary and they cannot proceed with the vim and vigor they would had they not already put in a full day's work.

It will be a week before the grand jury completes the regular docket of routine work. This routine docket refers to cases where the defendant is in jail or is out on bond. The law requires that these cases be taken up before any special cases be gone into.

When the usual criminal cases have been disposed of all day sessions of the jury on the municipal cases will be held, and the work will be disposed of in a rapid manner.

In one all-day session the grand jury and Circuit Attorney Folk will be able to dispose of as much business as they now are able to dispose of in four afternoon sessions.

No one in authority will admit that the work is slow.

Friday morning the Post-Dispatch interviewed E. F. W. Meier, who was president of the City Council when the Central Traction bill was passed, in his office 112 Vine street.

"Were you approached by any person or persons representing the traction company or any other interest of the Central Traction bill with the promise or tender of money for your vote or influence?" he was asked.

"I was not. I was opposed to the bill from start to finish and voted consistently."

"As president of the Council I was compelled to sign the bill after it had been passed by my contemporaries, but I voted against it. The records show my attitude in the matter."

BUTLER IS BELIEVED TO BE THE TARGET

TO BE THE TARGET OF THIS GRAND JURY

Eight New Witnesses Subpoenaed to Testify Friday Afternoon—Bribery Cases Docketed for February and March.

MORE BENCH WARRANTS ARE EXPECTED BEFORE TONIGHT

Ed Butler is believed to be the target of Circuit Attorney Folk and the February grand jury.

The investigations now pending—the Central Traction, Garbage, Lighting, Suburban and other municipal scandals—are being pressed along lines intended to lead to the middle-man.

In the beginning, the grand jury's work was directed by Mr. Folk in a general and systematic way calculated to bring within the dragnet all who might be guilty of bribery, whether by giving, receiving or delivering the money.

Several indictments alleging bribe giving, bribe taking and paying have resulted thus far, but now Mr. Folk and his co-workers, the members of the grand jury, seek to uncover the middle-man.

This apparent investigation of one man's acts has been brought about by Butler's voluntary and boastful declaration in published interviews in the Post-Dispatch and other St. Louis papers that he "delivered the goods" for a "fee," that he did business for franchise-seeking corporations for a "fee," that no third party figured in his transactions with franchise seekers; that upon receipt of the "fee" he "delivered the goods."

Butler was subpoenaed and testified before the December grand jury in the Suburban case. He has not yet been subpoenaed by the February grand jury. It was stated at Mr. Butler's house this morning that he was sick and bed.

work of the present grand jury has progressed far enough to cause the issuance of bench warrants, yet there are those who are in a position to know who confidently predict that bench warrants will be issued before tonight Friday.

CLERK IN B. P. I. IS SUMMONED

Philip S. Hogan Says He Does Not Know Why Grand Jury Calls Him.

Philip S. Hogan, a clerk in the tax division of the Board of Public Improvements, was subpoenaed Friday morning by the grand jury.

Hogan says he does not know what the grand jury wants with him. "Up to last spring he was chief clerk at the City Hospital, and three years ago served as a district inspector in the sprinkling department."

"I do not know whether or not the grand jury wishes me to testify regarding the sprinkling department," Hogan said to the Post-Dispatch Friday. "I have no means of knowing what matters I am expected to discuss."

BOODLE CASES ARE DOCKETED

All Except Winwright Are to Be Tried During February and March.

The trials of four of the men indicted by the December grand jury in connection with the Suburban bribery case were docketed for trial Friday morning.

These four cases were set to be tried during the months of February and March. This is in accord with Circuit Attorney Folk's plans to push these cases with all possible expedition.

The case of Henry Nicolaus, the brewery millionaire, is set for March 23, the last of the cases already docketed. He is charged with bribery.

Charles Kratz, the former councilman, is also charged with bribery, will be placed on trial on Feb. 27.

The case of Emil Meyenberg, charged with bribery, is set for March 11. Julius Lehmann, the former member of the House of Delegates, who is charged with perjury, growing out of the Suburban case, will be tried on March 11.

Harry A. Faulkner, who is indicted on a charge identical with that against Lehmann, will be tried on March 24.

The case against Julius Winwright, the other millionaire brewer, also indicted for bribery, is not set for trial. This is because Mr. Winwright is in Egypt at present, and the warrant cannot be served on him until his return to the United States.

President of the Council Which Passed Central Traction Bill Declares No Money Reached Him.

ROOSEVELT FALLS OUT WITH WOOD

Military Governor of Cuba Guilty of Unmilitary Conduct.

'MAY BE CENSURED BY ROOT

WROTE LETTERS ON POLITICAL MATTERS TO SENATORS.

It Is Said That the Former Army Surgeon and Rough Rider Colonel Has Committed a Serious Breach of Discipline.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Gen. Wood, military governor of Cuba, has incurred the President's displeasure and will be censured by the secretary of war. Gen. Wood a few days ago wrote a circular letter to senators urging tariff concessions to Cuba. This in the opinion of the secretary of war, is a breach of military discipline. Several members of the Senate have taken offense at the action and as the House was entirely ignored, some of the Republican leaders are indignant.

Much capital has been made by the Democrats out of the alleged interference of the military authorities in the legislation before Congress. The President's criticism is because of the unmilitary course in personally attempting to influence legislation and in ignoring members of the House.

At this particular time the President has been Republican members of the ways and means committee on his hands and is trying to make it easy for them to follow the administration in giving Cuba relief from burdensome tariff. Gen. Wood has added to these complications.

The President's action has added significance because of the well known personal relations between him and Gen. Wood. Gen. Wood was the colonel of the "Rough Rider" regiment when Mr. Roosevelt was lieutenant-colonel. Gen. Wood was then a plain assistant surgeon with the rank of captain, to a brigadier-general in the regular army in less than three years. He is the record of Leonard Wood, now military governor of Cuba. He is 40 years old, a soldier who ever served the United States, at least in modern times, has risen to the so rapidly as Gen. Wood. His record rests almost entirely upon the eight years service when he was colonel of the regiment which bears his name, the "Rough Riders." When Wood became colonel of the "Rough Riders" in May, 1898, he was unknown outside of his circle of friends in the army and at Washington. His brilliant dash at Las Guasimas made him a brigadier-general of volunteers, and the fact of San Juan Hill, in which he commanded a brigade, brought him the governorship of the city of Santiago.

Wood received his military training in the land country of the Southwest. Years before the "Rough Riders" were thought of, Wood was a regular army officer, and was a member of the Fourth Cavalry, later Gen. Lawton's. Wood was killed in the Philippines, brought home by the "Rough Riders," and placed in a position to acquire further distinction as soon as an opportunity should offer.

Gen. Wood was recently publicly censured by the President for an interference in a Cincinnati newspaper in which the general said he incurred with Admiral Dewey in the Philippine victory.

MAKES CHILDREN BRAINY.

Proof About Feeding.

It has been proved times without number that properly selected food will build up the brain. The testimony of a school teacher on this subject is good. The letter is long and only the important facts will be given.

"While I was teaching school in 1898, a little girl in the household where I lived was very fond of Grape-Nuts and would eat all she was allowed. I noticed that she was a remarkably bright pupil. There were five other children, all of one family, that were so marked in their family. They were really the brightest family I ever knew, so I questioned to find what they were using. They replied, 'Only Grape-Nuts.' I learned upon further inquiry that this was their chief diet for breakfast and discovered that their luncheon consisted generally of Grape-Nuts with cream and a little fruit. I had suffered from indigestion, headaches and general debility greatly and as I knew my diet was not well selected, I took up Grape-Nuts for breakfast food and carried it to school for luncheon. I soon discovered a change in my condition and found that Grape-Nuts afforded more nourishment than bread, meat, eggs, or anything that I could take in my basket. After luncheon I would feel strong and bright for the afternoon's work while before I had frequently been half ill.

In the spring of 1900 I went to college, resented a poor and boarded myself, subsisting largely on Grape-Nuts, and I cannot speak too highly of the food as a brain nourisher. At the end of a year's schooling I obtained a position in one of the war schools in this college town, and am well and happy.

The size of the college principal tells me that there is no food that agrees with her as well as Grape-Nuts and that testimony is repeated by a lady friend in my home. Name given by Postum Co., Little Creek, Mich.

GIRL MARRIED TO STOP PROSECUTION

MRS. ROBERT PORTER MCCLELLAND.

Mrs. McClelland was Miss Mae Bates Price until 11 o'clock Thursday morning when she was married to Mr. McClelland of 3223 Morgan street, a caterer, in a carriage in front of the Lindell Hotel by Justice Robert Walker. She said she had no idea of marrying for two years at least, until 10 minutes before 11 o'clock Wednesday night when her sweetheart suggested that they wed to insure her acquittal of the charge of vagrancy in the Court of Criminal Correction at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. She says she told the license clerk she was 18, but that her real age lacks over a year of that. After the marriage the couple went to the home of Robert Myers, the bride's uncle, at 1457 Warren street. The city attorney dismissed the case against Mrs. McClelland when it was called.

LIQUID SILVER FOUNTAIN PLANNED

F. C. DAMM PRESENTS NOVEL WORLD'S FAIR PROJECT.

COST WOULD BE $300,000

Column of Mercury, Propelled by Engines of 100 Horse Power, Would Shoot 100 Feet in Air.

A fountain which will throw into the air liquid silver, instead of water, is designed as a World's Fair feature by F. C. Damm of Guthrie, O. T., who is negotiating with Director of Works Taylor for the sale of his rights in the project.

Mr. Damm says that the mercury necessary for the operation of the fountain would cost $25,000, and that it could be sold after the close of the Fair for $200,000, estimating the depreciation of the liquid during that time as $25,000.

The cost of the mechanism for operating the fountain would be $75,000. Mr. Damm says, making the initial cost of the enterprise $100,000, of which at least two-thirds would be recovered after the Fair.

Mr. Damm plans that his fountain shall throw 100 tons of quicksilver 100 feet into the air every minute.

A heavy polished iron ball would be supported on top of the stream, as a ball might be supported on the stream from a strong fountain of water.

At night colored searchlights would be turned on the fountain, adding to the beauty of the scene. The fountain would be a power plant of large capacity, estimated by Mr. Damm at 100 horse power, would be necessary for the operation of the fountain.

Four iron globes, eight feet each in diameter, bearing searchlights of different colors, would revolve on axes, so as to cast the rays of light to strike the stream of mercury at constantly varying angles.

Every jet of mercury would be 24 inches in circumference. In the bowl of the fountain would be a reservoir of quicksilver, which would then be carried back into the reservoir above the fountain.

MAYOR DISCUSSES NEW WATER SUPPLY

ENGINEERS IN CONFERENCE WITH HIM FRIDAY MORNING.

THEY TELL WHY THEY DIFFER

Majority and Minority Reports Analyzed and Explained by Their Authors.

Mayor Wells was in conference Friday morning with the three expert hydraulic engineers appointed by him to report on the best means of obtaining a clear water supply for St. Louis.

Messrs. Hazen, Williams and Wisner arrived in the city Thursday night. Mr. Hazen is at the Planters' and the other two at the Southern.

The minority report, by Mr. Hazen, advises the retention of the present water works plant and the filtration of the river water.

Messrs. Williams and Wisner, who submitted the majority report, advocate a complete change in the water supply, recommending that the city water be brought from Meramec Springs, the headwaters of the Meramec river, 30 miles from St. Louis, by force of gravity, the fall being 400 feet.

Mayor Wells requested the conference in order that he might go over the reports with the engineers and learn more in detail their reason for differing.

MUNARCH TEAM LOST HARD GAME

Followers of the game of basket ball turned out in force to witness the opening contests of the St. Louis Amateur Basketball League which took place at Louisiana Hall, 911 North Vandeventer avenue last night.

The First Regiment Band played a program of catchy airs and the crowd was spirited battle.

The basketball games, from the scientific side, were a trifle raw and the officials showed some unfamiliarity with their duties, as in both cases, was natural to first efforts.

The contest between the Monarchs and the High School Alumni, as was anticipated, was a close one and contested bitterly from the start. High School finished the first half two points ahead and was doing the better work.

on four throws. In the second half the High School got but one score from a clear throw, while the Monarchs improved in their work.

Robinson and Schaeffering did good work for their respective teams.

Saturday night two more games were scheduled, one between the South Side

The presence of Kirksville in the organization is, however, believed to be the chief factor in the withdrawal of Washington University as it was in the case of Missouri University.

The complaint against its athletes has frequently been made and finally the state university severed all athletic relations with White's men. Washington feels that it cannot afford to identify itself with any organization not strictly amateur throughout. Hence its withdrawal.

ALASKA GROWING MUCH WARMER AFTER SIX YEARS

JAPAN CURRENT CHANGED BY AN EARTHQUAKE.

IT NOW FLOWS TO NORTHWEST

Winters Are Mild and Pleasant and Marked by Rains.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 7.—Sea captains lately arrived from the western coast of Alaska announce their belief that the Japan current has changed its course in the eastern part of the Pacific ocean, and is now running several hundred miles to the north and east of its former channel.
Capt. Wallace of the Alaskan steamer Cottage City, is one of the most prominent practical seamen, but a deep student of ocean geography. Capt. Wallace confirms the statements regarding the Japan current which have been made during the winter by a number of shipmasters who last summer and fall cruised along the Alaskan archipelago and further north.
He agrees with them that a very careful scientific experiment, based on mathematical calculations, shows conclusively that the trend of the Japan current has been radically changed.
Since the fall of 1899 these mariners hold that this warm ocean current has been sweeping with constantly increasing strength toward the Alaskan shore line.
In the fall of 1899 the western coast of Alaska was shaken by a terrible earthquake. Since that time the climate of Alaska has been changing. It is believed that the Japan current was "turned eastward" by a stupendous submarine upheaval, which formed a new chain of submarine mountains, throwing the current against the shore.
At first it was cooled by sea level glaciers, which accounts for the gradual change in temperature. The current has finally resumed its warmth, and the whole Alaskan climate has become milder. Last winter the climate there was rainy and warm like Puget Sound, 100 miles further south. The entire winter has been mild and rainy from Nome to Juneau.
Capt. O'Brien of the steamship Dolphin holds the same views.

DR. E. A. WALDO DISAPPEARED FROM NEW YORK IN 1896.

FAMILY TRACED HIM IN VAIN

He Has Just Written From San Francisco and a Brother Has Gone for Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The family of the Rev. Edward A. Waldo believed dead when he mysteriously disappeared from the city in 1896. Now they have learned that he is in San Francisco, and his brother, George S. Waldo, has started to bring him back to the city.
Thousands of dollars were spent by his family and friends in the fruitless search for him. Detectives traced him, after several weeks, as far as a Mississippi river town where he was supposed to have boarded a boat for New Orleans, but there the clue ended, and he was never heard of again until yesterday, when his old father received a letter in New Haven, and informed the brother in this city.
Realizing their probable fears of a joke he had taken the precaution to have the letter countersigned by a San Francisco minister, with whom he is temporarily staying.
Dr. Waldo left the headquarters of the New York University Settlement Society on the afternoon of July 13, 1896, and before Dr. Waldo had a similar experience. He labored in Chicago before coming to this city, and while doing mission work there he disappeared. He has been raising a large fund for the purpose of providing provisions for the poor of Chicago. Some weeks later Dr. Waldo was found wandering aimlessly about the streets of Tallahassee, Fla. It was three weeks before he could tell his name.

GEN. EAGAN INVITED TO FIGHT A DUEL

QUARRELED AT GUAYMAS WITH ATTORNEY W. P. HARLOW.

QUARREL OVER COPPER MINE

The Gentleman of the Embalmed Beef Notoriety Has Not as Yet Accepted the Challenge.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 7.—Owing to a misunderstanding in Guaymas, Mexico, two Americans became involved in a quarrel that is said to have led to a challenge to meet upon the field of honor. One was Gen. Charles P. Eagan of embalmed beef prominence, late commissary-general of the United States Army, the other Col. William P. Harlow of Nogales, an attorney with a national reputation.
Eagan, who has been representing W. C. Greene in his legal contest regarding the Cobres Grande Copper mines of Mexico, met Harlow at the hotel. The two, so the story goes, had a warm dispute.
Later, it is alleged, Harlow penned a challenge that was handed Eagan. Developing events are awaited by the American colony upon the return of Harlow, who is reported in conference with Greene at Cananea.

CHICAGO NEEDS RELIGION

Reformer Wants Christian Vaudeville Shows and Amusements in the Slum Districts.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—George W. Gray, secretary of the "forward movement," has been looking into conditions in the slums of Chicago. He has decided that what is needed to redeem them is Christian vaudeville shows, pool and billiard rooms and amusements for the people.
The immoral atmosphere in these places he charges directly to the saloons, which, he says, are an invading force, but he has little sympathy with the methods employed by the W. C. T. U. and the Prohibition party. Addressing a meeting of the "forward movement" said:
"In a canvass of a district in Chicago, a half mile square, I found 309 saloons, 207 questionable places, with 1729 inmates and 50 wine parlors. On Sunday night I found in this district 1214 people in churches and missions, and approximately 4,000 people in theaters, vaudeville houses and low places of amusement."
Every day and Sunday, too, "The Kaff Ringer," leaves Union Station at 8:32.

TOLD TILLMAN HIS TALK WAS TREASON

SHARP TILT IN SENATE OVER THE PHILIPPINES.

FORAKER LED THE DEBATE

Senator Hoar Denounced the Taft Treason Act as Inhuman and Unprecedented.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—"On which side of this Philippine question is the senator from South Carolina?" asked Senator Foraker of Senator Tillman during yesterday's debate.
"I am on the side of the Philippines fighting for their freedom, as our forefathers did," replied Mr. Tillman.
"If the senator uttered such sentiments outside this chamber," said Mr. Foraker, "he would be liable to the penalties prescribed by the revised statutes as applicable to treason against the government of the United States."
"I did not doubt the senator would come to the point of accusing me of treason," replied Mr. Tillman.
This colloquy followed the reading to the senator of the act of the Taft commission bearing on treason. Senator Hoar denounced the act as inhuman and unprecedented. He said a mother must inform against her son, a wife against her husband, a child against his father, under penalties ranging from death down to seven years' imprisonment. He characterized the measure as the harshest known to humanity.
Senator Foraker then took the floor and held it almost until midnight, replying to all comers, replying to all questions, and giving a remarkable exhibition of facility in debate and colloquy.
Mr. Tillman said he had seen a statement from Gen. Chaffee that practically the entire Philippine population was imbued with hatred of Americans.
"I must continue this infamous, tyrannical act of South Africa," said he.
Then, hesitating a few seconds, he continued:
"I stop right there because I can't find a word not enough to apply to the situation."

AN EPIDEMIC OF LAUGHTER

There Is No Joke in the Affliction Which Has Come to Young People of Wellington, Ill.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Feb. 7.—All Wellington, which is a town in Iroquois County, is laughing. It is not because they are amused—there is no joke about it—but because they cannot help it. The young people of Wellington are suffering from an epidemic of laughter, which has baffled the doctors and has caused much distress.
The first victim of the affliction was Miss Effie Hamilton, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hamilton. She laughed unceasingly for four days, until she was almost exhausted. She dashed a glass of cold water in her face. The shock had the desired effect, but for a long time the girl was exceedingly weak from the strain of her four days of laughing.
The second victim was Miss Rosa Botta, aged 15. She was taken much the same way as Miss Hamilton, but the cold-water cure had only temporary effect. The girl was finally stopped, but not until her condition had become alarming.
The third victim is a young man, John Kimberlin, who laughed for almost a week, and then only let up owing to his excessive weakness. The young people were all similarly afflicted, and during their hysterical attacks were unable to eat or sleep.

SAMPSON FILED A PROTEST

His Attorney's Paper Objects to Claim to President That Schley Had Supreme Command.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—E. S. Theall, representing Stanton & Campbell, counsel for Rear-Admiral Sampson, called at the White House today and filed with the President a brief in the Schley case. The document is short, and while it has not been made public, it can be stated that it is devoted entirely to one subject, namely, a protest against the claim set up in Admiral Schley's appeal that he was in supreme command during the battle of Santiago. The paper will be considered by the President in connection with Admiral Schley's appeal and the navy department's comment.

MYSTERY ENDS IN PRETTY ROMANCE

GROOM RAN AWAY ON EVE OF HIS WEDDING.

NOW COMES BACK TO MARRY

He Ran Away Because He Thought He Had Killed a Rival in a Quarrel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 7.—Stranger than fiction is the real romance of Hans Kessler, who has just returned from Germany to find and ask the forgiveness of a sweet heart whom he deserted two years ago on the eve of their intended marriage.

At that time Hans was a frugal farmer-hand in southeastern Missouri and was captivated by pretty Dora Hanson, a neighbor's daughter. In due time their forthcoming marriage was announced and extensive preparations were made by the bride's father to celebrate the event.

A final moment, however, when the guests had assembled and all was in readiness for the tying of the nuptial knot, the announcement was made that the groom-to-be had disappeared, spreading dismay throughout the party.

Many tales were circulated throughout the neighborhood as to the probable cause of his sudden departure, some of them seriously reflecting upon the character of the bride, but Miss Hanson, although deeply humiliated, believed none of them. Her husband's whereabouts she did not know.

His whereabouts she did not know. He had disappeared, spreading dismay throughout the party.
